

Bryan Coble

SOW CHICAGO (IRVING PARK )

About the Family

Bryan and Marci were married in 2001 and share two sons. Bryan received his bachelor's degree in Christian ministry from Leavell College at New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary in December 2013 and graduated with a Master of Divinity, specializing in urban missions in May 2016. While at NOBTS, Marci received certificates in women's and worship ministry, ensuring both would be well equipped for God's calling to Chicago.

Bryan is employed as a general manager at Honeybaked Ham and is currently a church planter apprentice with the North American Mission Board. Bryan is a visionary leader who seeks to make disciples, mobilizing them to be the hands and feet of Jesus in their community. Bryan is currently developing partnerships with various churches, while conquering the challenges of bivocational ministry.

Many partners and prayer warriors are needed to advance the gospel in Chicago. Pray with them as they seek to fulfill God's work in their community and beyond.

About the Church Plant

We are located in the Irving Park neighborhood, which is one of Chicago's 77 neighborhoods. Our mission is to Sow—Grow—Go: sowing the gospel, growing in Christ, going on mission.

We seek to sow the gospel in our neighborhood by allowing every person in a five-block radius the opportunity to hear and respond to the gospel. As we sow the gospel, we seek to help others grow in Christ and learn to become disciples of Jesus who make other disciples. Our aim is to serve our community by being visible in Independence Park and to multiply strong Christ following leaders throughout northwest Chicago as we multiply more leaders and plant more churches.
