IGLESIA HISPANA LIFEWAY (AUBURN VALLEY)

About the Family

My wife, Maria, and I were raised in Southern California. I am from El Salvador, and Maria is from Mexico. Although we are both Hispanic, we have different customs.

Being fluent in English and accustomed to American culture, we are called, along with our two daughters, to plant a second generation church to reach the lost and bring multiple Hispanic cultures together in the Auburn Valley. Maria's siblings are also part of our work.

About the Church Plant

The Auburn Valley Hispanic population is growing and is now the second largest ethnic group in Auburn at 14.6 percent of the population. Spanish is the second most spoken language among 10.4 percent of the total population.

Most second generation Hispanics are between the ages of 22 and 24 years old, making Auburn Valley a great area to reach second generation Hispanics who know of our Hispanic culture and have incorporated the American way into their lifestyle. Most of the second generation love to grab their coffee from Starbucks and bagels or muffins from Panera Bread. Our mission is to make new disciples of Americanized Hispanics who are looking for a relevant cultural church.
