

Seung David Kim

NEWCITY CHURCH (LONG ISLAND CITY, NEW YORK)

About the Family

After pastoring various first-generation Korean churches in the United States, Pastor David and his wife, Erica, were called to plant a church for young generation Koreans in the urban areas of New York. After praying and preparing for two years, they responded faithfully and gratefully to this calling and planted NewCity Church (NCC) in Long Island City in New York.

Pastor David was born into a pastor's family in Seoul, Korea. After college, he was called to become a full-time pastor and studied at Westminster Seminary in Pennsylvania and has served youth, young adults and adults at Korean churches in Pennsylvania and New York City. He met Erica in 2011, and they have been joyfully married for five years.

Erica was born into a Christian family in Busan, Korea. She is now a professional violinist and, each Sunday, Erica joins the praise team.

About the Church Plant

NewCity Church is passionate about multiplication and looking for new ways to impact the city for Jesus through the planting of churches. We settled in Long Island City in 2011. In April 2015, we began to offer weekly worship gatherings and partnered with New-City Church led by Patrick Thompson.

We are partnering with Send NYC, and Pastor David is going through Incubator Intensive Program in City to City Redeemer. Pastor David and Erica have hearts to reach Koreans in the New York area and to plant churches particularly for those who are bilingual and bi-cultural as they are.
