

Slava Kovalenko

RUSSIAN BAPTIST CHURCH (UPPER WEST SIDE)

About the Family

Slava and his wife, Olga, are a Russian-speaking couple from Kiev, Ukraine, who came to NYC in 2000 as the Lord opened the door for them to study in the U.S. After receiving his Master of Divinity, Slava was called as an associate pastor to the multicongregational Baptist church in Brooklyn, N.Y. Olga is a professional violinist and, in addition to her musical career, she received her master's degree in Christian counseling.

About the Church Plant

The Russian church plant was started with the vision to reach the young, Russian-speaking population in Metro NYC. Since the plant started, the Lord has gathered people having different gifts and experiences into the core group.

Our plant began weekly services on the Upper West Side in Manhattan. People of many nationalities and cultures participate in our worship services.
