About the Family

We're a family of six with a passion to reach the unreached and most "difficult" ethnic groups of Columbus. After five years of service in South Asia engaging similar groups of people from four different nations, God called us to Columbus with the goal of seeing these historically "hard" people come to Christ.

As well, we hope that new, indigenous churches will be formed in their communities. Our desire is to risk all for the love of Christ and the good of His people. We are driven by God's vision as spelled out in Revelation 5:9 (people from every tribe, tongue and nation redeemed by and worshiping the Lamb) and rejoice that He has called and enables us to participate! We rejoice also that the hardest of hearts is no match for the kindness of God!

About the Church Plant

Moving in faith toward a disciple making movement (DMM) among our assigned ethnic groups, Matt is:

- 1) Personally and with a handful of partners engaging our ethnic groups in their worship/training centers, businesses, etc., throughout the week.
- 2) Recruiting local churches to the work by: (a) establishing in them weekly prayer for the movement; (b) providing training on the "how to" of gospel engagement and apologetic defense; (c) involving churches in monthly push weekends, blitzing ethnic communities with the gospel and identifying interested persons for follow-up.

This is an endurance effort (typically seven years to fruit). However, we pray for a speedy and great harvest of disciples making disciples to the glory of God!
