

Ye Amar

JMA MINISTRIES (BURMESE COMMUNITY)

About the Family

My wife, Ei Ei The, and I arrived in Atlanta in 2013. We have been married nearly 11 years now. God blessed us with a son, Jayden Amar, in 2014. I am seeking asylum from the religious persecution I confronted in my country, as we have been involved in the church planting movement in the middle and lower parts of the country.

After years of serving God in my own country, we believe God brought us to Atlanta for His people who need our touch, talk and teaching about the gospel. We didn't know we would be here for such a long time, but God has His own reason. Through my family, the Lord has been doing great things among the Burmese refugees, and now we have gathered many people.

About the Church Plant

Since 2013, we have been going house-to-house visiting Burmese refugees in Clarkston, starting with our neighbors and another apartment complex. We met with Animists, Buddhists, Hindu, Muslim and traditional worshipers. We were in wonder to see them in the United States. Our hearts were burdened, and we started to preach the gospel that God put in us.

Now, we have been gathering as home group or house churches in eight different places with about 147 people. We meet every week in different groups, and once a week we gather in one place. Our house churches are designed to train people to be disciple makers. May the Lord bless our home group movement by multiplying disciples in this community.
