RESURRECTION ARABIC CHURCH (PARMA)

About the Family

Maher is married to his wife, Rania, and they have three children: Youtham, Mirna and Emy. Maher is from Portsaid, Egypt, and his birthday is Christmas Day! Maher and Rania were raised as Coptic Christians and became followers of Jesus later.

Maher and his family moved to West Palm Beach in 2013, where he started a Bible study that grew into an Arabic church. God led him to explore church planting, and he connected with the North American Mission Board. Through that connection he was introduced to Send City missionary Jeff Calloway, who recruited Maher to come to Cleveland as the first SBC Arabic church plant in the history of the Cleveland Hope Association.

About the Church Plant

Resurrection Arabic Church is the first Arabic language SBC Cleveland church. The church is situated in the largest Cleveland suburb of Parma with a population of 80,000. This church will be focusing on reaching Arabic-speaking Christians and the a large populationsmade up of Syrians, Jordanians, Egyptians and Saudis.

The vision of our church is to share the new life Jesus gives to all who ask through His death, burial and resurrection. We seek to encounter Arabic-speaking peoples in Cleveland with the message of Isa (Jesus) and His gospel as found in the Injil (New Testament).
