About the Family

Meredith and I have been married for nearly six years and have two boys: Benjamin (2) and Samuel (6 months). In 2011 we left a student ministry role in Oklahoma to pursue a call to church planting and further theological training at Southeastern Seminary. For us, this was primarily because we had been captured by God's heart for the lost. That journey also solidified our belief in and commitment to the local church.

During our time in seminary, we were blessed to be part of a church plant in Raleigh, N.C. (Imago Dei Church), from the ground up. We have been sent from that church with a team of incredible leaders to Denver and are grateful to be part of what God is doing in this city.

About the Church Plant

We as a church are committed to two things: growing people by the gospel and building community that reflects the gospel. We believe God moves when the gospel is made central. Isaiah 55 uses the image of a cypress replacing thorns to show the new life that comes when God's people take God's Word to the lost; we believe that's what we will see in Denver.

Our prayer is that God would make Cypress:

- 1) An influential church locally, working to establish visible expressions of the gospel in every neighborhood.
- 2) A multiplying church regionally, including five new Front Range churches planted in 10 years.
- 3) A sending church globally, working in church planting efforts on five continents by 2022.
