

Josh Wyatt

CHARLES RIVER CHURCH (PARKWAY BOSTON)

About the Family

Josh first sensed a call to ministry at age 17 while spending time serving children in a low-income housing development in greater Atlanta. After pursuing undergrad and seminary degrees, he was married to Becky, and the Lord called them to ministry in New England. After seven years serving on a church plant team in central Massachusetts, they sold their home and moved to Boston as a strategic location to plant more churches and serve New England.

Josh and Becky have three children: Isaiah, Luca and Norah. Becky teaches in the Boston public school system and loves serving her family and church. On top of his ministries in Boston, Josh enjoys traveling to speak at student events across the country with a unique focus on the Northeast.

About the Church Plant

Charles River Church launched in October 2010, serving Parkway Boston, the western-most neighborhoods of Boston proper. The Wyatt's landed in this area of the city upon discovering that there are nearly 70,000 people, but no English-speaking evangelical churches. The area is among the most affordable in Boston and, as a result, draws a great diversity of young families seeking to lay down roots in the city.

The church reaches an ethnically diverse mix of young professionals and families through strong ministries to low-income housing developments, family ministries, and community events. Though diverse, there is great unity in Christ. Many are coming to faith in Christ. It's an exciting season!
