ELEMENT CHURCH (LAUREL)

About the Family

Kim and I married on June 11, 2016, and could not be more excited to be leading Element Church together. Kim recently graduated from Fairleigh Dickinson University with a degree in hospitality management. She uses that knowledge to lead an awesome team of people who care for guests at Element.

I graduated from Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary with an Associate of Divinity and stepped into youth ministry in 2006 in Laytonsville, Md. A couple of years later, I accepted a youth pastor position at South Columbia Baptist Church in Columbia, Md., and served for seven years.

During my time there, God did many things that both humbled me and drew me closer to Him. Ultimately, through the support of great friends and my pastor, I began to pursue church planting. Every time I took a step, God confirmed the call to move forward.

About the Church Plant

Element Church is committed to connecting broken and hurting people to Jesus one step at a time. No matter where we are with God, we all have a next step to take. At Element, we focus on helping people discover their next step and then empower them to actually take it.

We launched October 11, 2015, and have people take next steps of accepting Christ, being baptized, beginning to serve, committing to give, attending regularly and even inviting friends. God gave us His best when He gave us His Son, and we work hard each week to bring God our absolute best through our worship experience, eGroups and serving. We lead with the attitude of grace and truth that Jesus modeled. Everybody is welcome, and we all have a next step to take.
